

The Royal Environmental Health Institute of Scotland

About REHIS and Environmental Health in Scotland

Improving and protecting the health and wellbeing of Scotland's people through education, training and qualifications in Environmental Health

What is Environmental Health

'Environmental Health is that area of Public Health activity which strives to improve, protect and maintain health and well-being through action on the physical environment and on life circumstances.' (Old report 2006)

In Scotland, the seven principle subjects within Environmental Health are:

- » Food Safety
- » Food Standards
- » Occupational Health & Safety
- » Public Health
- » Waste Management
- » Built Environment
- » Pollution Control

Practice and Delivery of Environmental Health

The practice and delivery of Environmental Health in Scotland lies primarily with Environmental Health Officers (EHOs) working in Scotland's local authorities. EHOs are public health professionals, educated to degree level and professionally qualified, and their primary objective is to improve and protect the health and well-being of Scotland's people. The Environmental Health workforce in Scotland's local authorities also includes Food Safety Officers, Contaminated Land Officers and a range of other technical and scientific support staff. REHIS, EHOs and the wider environmental health workforce work in partnership with a wide range of organisations and these include:

- » Food Standards Agency Scotland www.food.gov.uk
- » Health Protection Scotland www.hps.scot.nhs.uk
- » Health and Safety Executive www.hse.gov.uk
- » International Federation of Environmental Health www.ifeh.org
- » Scottish Environment Protection Agency www.sepa.org.uk
- » Scottish Government www.scotland.gov.uk
- » Society of Chief Officers of Environmental Health in Scotland www.socoeh.com

About REHIS

The Royal Environmental Health Institute of Scotland, often referred to as REHIS, was established in 1983 following the merger of the Royal Sanitary Association of Scotland (founded 1875) and The Scottish Institute of Environmental Health (founded 1891). The Institute was Incorporated by Royal Charter in 2001. The affairs of the Institute are managed by a Council, elected annually by members. The Institute is a Member of The International Federation of Environmental Health and is a UK Competent Authority under Regulation 4 of The European Communities (Recognition of Professional Qualifications) Regulations 2007 for the Professions 'Environmental Health Officer' and 'Chartered Environmental Health Officer'. The Royal Environmental Health Institute of Scotland is a registered Scottish charity, No. SC009406.

Why REHIS exists

The objects for which the Institute is established, and which are contained in its Royal Charter, are:

For the benefit of the community to promote the advancement of Environmental Health by

- » Stimulating general interest in and disseminating knowledge concerning Environmental Health.
- » Promoting education and training in matters relating to Environmental Health.
- » Maintaining, by examination or otherwise, high standards of professional practice and conduct on the part of Environmental Health Officers in Scotland.

What REHIS does

- » Represents its members and promotes the protection and improvement of public health in Scotland.
- » Liaises closely with government and other bodies regarding Environmental Health.
- » Arranges seminars and training events on a wide range of Environmental Health topics.
- » Awards the qualifications required to practice as Environmental Health Officers and Food Safety Officers in Scotland.
- » Acts as the awarding body for a range of Environmental Health qualifications.
- » Provides a Scheme of Continuing Professional Development for members.
- » Provides information to government and to the public.
- » Publishes a quarterly Journal, Environmental Health Scotland and a monthly e-newsletter.
- » Regularly publishes information on employment opportunities for Environmental Health professionals.
- » Maintains links with organisations representing the Environmental Health Profession across the world.

Joining us

The Institute has a range of membership categories including:

- » Corporate Member (EHO)
For Environmental Health Officers.
- » Corporate Member (Other)
For holders of other qualifications of a level broadly commensurate with those of an Environmental Health Officer.
- » Associate
For anyone with an interest in Environmental Health.
- » Student
For students studying on accredited environmental health degree courses and for Student / Graduate Trainee Environmental Health Officers.
- » Affiliate
For corporate bodies or unincorporated associations.

Membership is by annual subscription and prospective members require a proposer and seconder, each of whom must be a Member or Fellow of the Institute.

Core Values and Vision

REHIS is established to promote the advancement of Environmental Health for the benefit of the community. Environmental Health embraces all aspects of public health, hygiene and safety in all or any of their branches.

In particular the Institute aims to promote:

- » improvements to the environment which can have a positive impact on public health or safety.
- » safe and healthy housing.
- » an environment which is safe and prevents harm to human health.
- » good standards of occupational health, safety and hygiene.
- » food which is safe, wholesome and accurately described.
- » sustainability, locally, nationally and internationally.
- » effective education and training to ensure environmental health standards are maintained and improved.
- » the resolution of health and environmental health inequalities.
- » equitable, practical and consistent regulations and enforcement.
- » high standards of professional training and conduct amongst Environmental Health Officers and others engaged in maintaining and promoting environmental health.

For a membership application pack or other information please contact

The Royal Environmental Health Institute of Scotland

19 Torphichen Street, Edinburgh, EH3 8HX

Tel: 0131 229 2968 Fax: 0131 228 2926

E-mail: contact@rehis.com Website: www.rehis.com

The Royal Environmental Health Institute of Scotland
is a registered Scottish charity, No. SC009406.

REHIS and the Crest Device are Registered Trade Marks

© Copyright: The Royal Environmental Health Institute of Scotland 2013.